Read the following passage, then answer the questions:

The natural life span of a domesticated horse is about 25–30 years, 10 years down from what it was in the wild. You can tell a horse's age from the number of teeth it has. They get all their teeth by the age of 5, after which those teeth just get longer.

Horses are adapted to run, allowing them to quickly escape from predators, possessing an excellent sense of balance and a strong fight-or-flight response. Horses have close to 360 degree all around vision. The only place they cannot see is directly behind or right in front of them, which is why it's dangerous to stand behind a horse. If they feel something behind them, they may kick first and ask questions later! It also means that they cannot see a jump once they are about four feet from it, and have to rely on memory as to its height and shape! Each of the horse's two eyes works independently wherever a horse's ear points it is the direction where the horse is looking. A horse is able to sleep standing up as it is able to lock its leg muscles so that it doesn't fall asleep.

Horses and humans interact in a wide variety of sports competitions and non-competitive recreational pursuits, as well as in working activities such as police work, agriculture, entertainment and therapy.

Read the following passage, then answer the questions:

The oldest living things on Earth are trees. Some of California's sequoias have for four thousand years looked down on the changes in the landscape and the comings and goings of humans. They sprouted from tiny seeds about the time the Egyptian pyramids were being built. Today these seeds seem as remote and inaccessible as the rocks and mountain cliffs on which they grow, like cathedral columns holding up the sky. It is hard to imagine them playing any part in the lives of mere humans or being in any way affected by the creatures that pass at their feet.

Lesser trees, however, have played an intimate role in the lives of people since they first appeared on Earth. Trees fed the fires that warmed humans: they provided shelter, food and medicine and even clothing. They also shaped people's spiritual horizons. Trees expressed the mystery of life, as they moved through the cycle of seasons, from life to death and back to life again. Trees were the largest living things around humans and they knew that some trees had been standing on the same spot in their parent's and grandparents' time, and would continue to stand long after they were gone. No wonder these trees became symbols of strength, fruitfulness, and everlasting life.

Read the following passage, then answer the questions:

What makes it rain? Rain falls from clouds for the same reason anything falls to Earth. The Earth's gravity pulls it. But every cloud is made of water droplets or ice crystals. Why doesn't rain or snow fall constantly from all clouds? The droplets or ice crystals in clouds are exceedingly small. The effect of gravity on them is minute. Air currents move and lift droplets so that the net downward displacement is zero, even though the droplets are in constant motion.

Droplets and ice crystals behave somewhat like dust in the air made visible in a ray of sunlight. To the casual observer, dust seems to act in a totally random way, moving without a fixed direction. But in fact, dust particles are much larger than water droplets and they finally fall. The cloud droplet of average size is only 1/2500 inch in diameter. It is so small that it would take sixteen hours to fall half a mile in perfectly still air, and it does not fall out of moving air at all. Only when the droplet grows to a diameter of 1/125 inch or larger can it fall from the cloud. The average raindrop contains a million times as much water as a tiny cloud droplet. The growth of a cloud droplet to a size large enough to fall out is the cause of rain and other forms of precipitation. This important growth process is called "coalescence."

Read the following passage, then answer the questions:

Sleep is essential for maintaining good health and well-being throughout life. It helps the body repair itself, supports brain function, and strengthens the immune system. People who do not get enough sleep may experience memory problems, difficulty concentrating, and a weakened immune system.

Sleep happens in cycles. There are two main types of sleep: non-REM sleep and REM (Rapid Eye Movement) sleep. Non-REM sleep has three stages, with the third stage being the deepest. During REM sleep, the brain is active, and most dreaming occurs. Both types of sleep are necessary for rest and recovery.

The amount of sleep a person needs depends on their age. Babies need the most sleep, about 14–17 hours a day, while adults usually need 7–9 hours. Lack of sleep can lead to serious health problems such as obesity, heart disease, and depression. Therefore, maintaining a regular sleep schedule and creating a comfortable sleeping environment are important for overall well-being.

Read the following passage, then answer the questions:

Renewable energy sources are becoming more popular as people look for ways to reduce pollution and protect the environment. Unlike fossil fuels, renewable energy comes from sources that are naturally replenished, such as sunlight, wind, and water.

Solar energy, for example, uses panels to convert sunlight into electricity. Wind energy is harnessed using wind turbines, while hydropower generates electricity through the movement of water. These sources do not produce harmful emissions like coal or oil, making them a cleaner alternative.

One of the biggest challenges of renewable energy is storage. Since the sun does not always shine and the wind does not always blow, scientists are working on developing better battery technology to store excess energy. Despite these challenges, many countries are investing in renewable energy to reduce dependence on fossil fuels and create a more sustainable future.

Choose the correct answer from a, b, c or d:

- 14. What is the main idea of the passage?
- a) The dangers of fossil fuels.
 - b) The use of renewable energy sources.
 - c) The discovery of new energy sources.

(8M)

Animals are very useful creatures to not only humans but also to the world, they can be used for various reasons like food, transportation, material uses, safety and recreation.

Animals and plants are dying out at an alarming rate. Throughout history living things have become extinct, mainly due to climate change.

Today, humans are the biggest threat. Forests are being cut down and wetlands are being drained for building on which has caused thousands of animals and plants to become endangered. The environment is being changed so much that animals and plants cannot survive. We call this habitat loss. Trees are cut down and burned for timber. The land is then used for buildings and roads.

Hunting is another great threat. Animals are hunted for their fur, horns and meat. Conservation includes sheltering and trying to save animals and plants from destruction by humans. There are organisations all over the world protecting endangered creatures and providing safe places for them to live.

The snow leopard is an endangered cat and is still hunted illegally in some areas for its fur.

CITES (The Convention on International Trade in Endangered Species) protects the snow leopard. Whales, dolphins, porpoises, monkeys, apes, and lemurs are also protected by CITES.

Experts help endangered species by capturing a few animals in the wild and raising them in captivity. Offspring are then released into a safe, suitable area.

Pollution also threatens animals and plants, damaging oceans, rivers and forests.

(8M)

Litter is any kind of trash thrown in small amounts, especially in places where it doesn't belong. With time, it heaps up. The practice is unlawful because it costs municipalities millions of dollars annually in cleanup costs. It also reflects a bad picture of an area. The most frequently littered stuff include fast food packaging, cigarette butts, used drink bottles, chewing gum wrappers, broken electrical equipment parts, toys, broken glass, food scraps or green wastes.

Global litter is an ongoing problem which many nations have to deal with. Fortunately, there are a number of possible solutions which could lead to a permanent reduction in the waste that has increased worldwide.

One way would be to encourage companies to use biodegradable packaging for their products. Biodegradable items decompose naturally and therefore they do not add to the problem of litter. Another would be to save old metal in order to put it to further use.

As a result, all discarded metal products such as vehicles water tools and machine parts could be melted down and used to make other products. The most effective method of reducing litter, however, is to educate people to recycle their household waste products. In fact, schemes such as paper, bottle and aluminium can collections have all been successful in reducing litter in many countries.

Read the following passage, then answer the questions:

(8M)

Throughout history, there have been reliable reports on dolphins playing with people and helping them. The earliest accounts are from over 2000 years ago.

There is no doubt that many dolphins are interested in people. They often seek human companionship, enjoy playing ball games and like being petted. However, their life-saving is perhaps not due to concern for us but is a result of the fact that they naturally support a sick brother to keep him near the surface so that he can breathe. When they help a human, perhaps they are just doing what comes naturally.

Their intelligence is difficult to determine. We qualify animals as intelligent if they can do things that we ourselves are good at. When a monkey uses a stick as a tool, we say that this shows intelligence. On the other hand, some birds fly accurately for thousands of kilometres, but we do not normally call this intelligence.

What then of dolphins? First, they navigate extremely accurately, even in dirty water, relying on sound reflection like bats. Second, they communicate – in ways we do not understand – both facts and feelings. One dolphin can pass on to another without touching it or showing it something that it has learnt. They also know when another is sad. So evidence suggests that dolphins are both friendly and intelligent, but in order to be sure we'll just have to learn. Then we can simply ask them.

Choose the correct answer from a, b, c or d:

14. What does the underlined word 'They' refer to?

- a) Dolphins.
b) People.
c) Birds.
d) Reports.

17. When do we usually call an animal "intelligent"?

- ☐ a) When it imitates us.
- ☐ b) When it travels long distances.
- ☐ c) When it saves a person.
- ☐ d) When it runs fast.

18. In what way are dolphins like bats?

- ☐ a) They fly accurately.
- ☐ b) They like humans.
- ☐ c) They navigate relying on sound reflection.
- ☐ d) They save drowning persons.

19. What shows that dolphins are interested in people?

- ☐ a) They often seek human companionship.
- ☐ b) They enjoy playing ball games.
- ☐ c) They like being petted.
- ☐ d) All of these.

20. Why do dolphins keep a sick person near the surface?

- ☐ a) To eat him.

2. Read the following passage, then answer the questions :

(المنوفية - الباجور ٢٠٢٤)

Pollution is a major issue that affects the environment and human health. It occurs when harmful substances or chemicals are introduced into the environment. Pollution can come from a variety of sources such as industrial activities, transportation, waste disposal, and agriculture. There are several types of pollution such as air pollution, water pollution, and soil pollution.

Air pollution is caused by the release of harmful chemicals and particles into the air. This can come from factories, vehicles, and other sources. It can cause respiratory problems, allergies, and other health issues, particularly for people with pre-existing conditions such as asthma.

Water pollution is caused by the release of harmful substances into water bodies like rivers and lakes. This can come from factories, sewage systems, and agricultural runoff. Water pollution can harm aquatic life and make water unsafe for human use.

Soil pollution is caused by the introduction of harmful substances into the soil. This can come from pesticides, fertilizers, and waste disposal. Soil pollution can harm plants and animals and make soil unsafe for farming.

The problem of pollution is a global issue that needs to be addressed at all levels, from individuals to governments. 2. Read the following passage, then answer the questions : (دمياط - السبع ٢٠٢٤)

Newspapers remain an important source of news for several reasons. The first of these is that the older generation still prefers to read their news this way, which is because they have traditionally bought a newspaper over the years and so do not want to change or simply do not know how to do so online in some cases. In addition to this, a newspaper also comes with other supplements, such as magazines and television guides, and sources of entertainment, such as crosswords. This makes it more attractive for some than going online.

However, though newspapers may not disappear completely, the internet is likely to become the more dominant source of news over time. It is common at the present time to see people getting updates on the latest news from the internet rather than the traditional method of reading a newspaper. This is primarily because younger people tend to read the news online and prefer not to pay for it, so those reading newspapers, the older generations, will gradually decline. This links in with the second reason, which is that as media companies start to see a drop in income from newspapers, printing them will become unprofitable and they will be forced to find ways to make money from news online.

In conclusion, although newspapers remain popular today, they will gradually be replaced by the desire to read the news through electronic sources. This may be a sad loss given their history, but unfortunately, it is an unavoidable development.

- Older generations still prefer to read their news through a. newspapers b. the internet c. the radio d. the computer
- To some people, newspapers are more attractive than online as they
a. provide sources of entertainment b. come with other additions
c. are cheaper d. a & b

2. Read the following passage, then answer the questions :

I've been writing music for video games for nearly 15 years now. People outside the video game industry are often surprised to learn that such a job actually exists. But with video games becoming increasingly popular, having a successful career as a video game music composer is now a realistic ambition for many young people. Being a composer is not easy though determination is essential if you want to do well in this job.

I got into this career by accident. One day, my teacher offered me some work playing music on a recording she was making. I did the work and didn't think any more about it. A few months later, my sister was playing a video game at home when I suddenly recognised the music and saw my name on the screen. I knew then that this could be a career! From that point on, I tried to learn as much as possible about all kinds of music and I would recommend anyone considering becoming a composer to do the same. I also realised how beneficial it was to attend video game conferences to have plenty of self-confidence because representatives from all the major video game companies are there.

People think the job is just about having fun, but it's not always the case. You spend a lot of time working alone, so motivation is a key aspect of this career. If you're not the sort of person who can accept criticism, then perhaps this isn't the job for you.

1. The main idea of the passage is

a. the history of music	b. how I became a music composer
c. how to play video games	d. when to play music
2. The writer got into this career

a. by force	b. accidentally	c. on purpose	d. luckily

---------------	----------------	---------------	--------------
4. The antonym of the underlined word 'beneficial' is

a. harmful	b. helpful	c. useful	d. careful
------------	------------	-----------	------------
5. The writer would recommend for anyone considering becoming a composer to

a. play video games	b. listen to music
c. look at the screen	d. learn about all kinds of music
6. According to the text, having a successful career as a video game music composer is

a. a hard effort for young people
b. an interesting thing for old people
c. a realistic ambition for many young people
d. unnecessary work for young people
7. If you're not the sort of person who can accept criticism,

a. then perhaps this isn't the job for you
b. I think I probably have the best job in the world
c. your first or second piece of music won't necessarily be successful
d. it can also be frustrating

8. One of the following is NOT mentioned in the passage: “.....”.

Read the following passage, then answer the questions:

The city of Venice, Italy, is known for its intricate network of canals and stunning architecture. Built on a series of islands in a lagoon, Venice has been called the "Floating City." The canals are the city's main arteries, and water taxis and gondolas are popular modes of transportation.

One of the most famous landmarks in Venice is St. Mark's Basilica, located in St. Mark's Square. The basilica is a prime example of Byzantine architecture and features stunning mosaics and intricate carvings. Another popular attraction is the Doge's Palace, which was the home of the Doge of Venice, the city's chief magistrate. The palace is now a museum and contains many works of art and historical artifacts.

Venice is also famous for its traditional glassmaking industry. Glassmakers on the island of Murano have been producing handcrafted glass objects for centuries. Visitors can watch demonstrations of glassblowing and purchase unique glass souvenirs.

Despite its beauty and popularity as a tourist destination, Venice is facing significant challenges due to the effects of climate change. Rising sea levels and flooding have become increasingly common, and the city is working on solutions to protect its historic buildings and canals.
